Community Discussion Summary

Increased Accessible/Attainable Housing was selected at the second quarter CPP meeting as an outcome for the Climax-Area community. During the third quarter, the Panel welcomed Clark Anderson from Community Builders to present at the meeting, highlighting best practices and share successes around Increased Accessible/Attainable Housing.

According to Community Builders website, “Today, communities of all sizes are looking to grow stronger and more prosperous. But many of the West’s small cities and rural communities don’t have access to the same resources of their larger peers. Our programs fill this gap. We provide direct technical assistance, trainings, research and webinars to deliver on-the-ground results, build local capacity and inspire future progress on the issues that matter most to communities.” Learn more about Community Builders.

Where do you think you are in the process?

Lake: at the starting line. We need people to build the houses, we need policy alignment, infrastructure, financial capacity, many vacant lot listings. There is no one to build or finance, construction loan financing is difficult.

Chaffee: Out of the box as a region, as far as sector partnerships and bringing businesses — otherwise housing would not have emerged as our top issue.

The Leadership Initiative for Sustainable Communities is moving forward and we are pleased to announce the Climax cohort members:

- Amy Tait
- Jack Saunders
- Juli Babcock
- Peggy Forney
- Tracie Fletcher

The Climax-Area cohort will work with Lodestar Center for Philanthropy and Nonprofit Innovation at ASU to develop collective action around Increased Accessible/Attainable Housing. This is a strategy to build capacity and allow the Climax-Area to lead their own development and sustainability.
