Industry/Business Update

Employment in Graham County remains level with 710 employees at the Safford mine and a total of 200 employees at the Central Analytical Services Center and Technology Center-Sanchez facilities.

Permitting for the Lone Star oxide project remains on schedule. A Final Environmental Impact Statement was published by the Army Corps of Engineers in April, with a comment period through May 22, and an anticipated Record of Decision in July 2017. Contractors will build and install power infrastructure to the mine site during the remainder of 2017 to keep non-permitted development of the proposed project on-schedule.

The Lone Star oxide project still requires capital approval from the FCX Board of Directors.

Exploration drilling activities will take place over the summer commencing in May and concluding by mid-September. The drilling program is in support of an initiative to better understand the geology of the deep sulfide deposit that underlies the Lone Star oxide ore body.
