Committee members are responsible for making decisions regarding the allocation of funds from the Freeport-McMoRan Foundation on an annual basis. The goal of the Community Investment Committee is to combine the knowledge and expertise of community leaders in the process of allocating resources to priority community programs and projects that benefit the greater good. The Investment Committee is comprised of seven community representatives and three Freeport-McMoRan representatives. Investment Committee members will review, evaluate and determine community programs and projects to receive charitable financial support from the Freeport-McMoRan Foundation. This will be done once a year, during one grant cycle. Committee representatives will serve a term of three years.
